Mark Sulborski Sworn in as Fulton County School System's Police Chief

Mark Sulborski, a captain with the Fulton County Schools Police Department, has been tapped to protect and serve the school community as its new Chief of Police.

In his new role, Chief Sulborski is leading the Fulton County Schools Police Department, a division of the school system that provides a focus on safety and security through more than 66 certified police officers and administrative staff serving in 100+ schools and auxiliary buildings.

"Chief Sulborski has an esteemed reputation that was built on service, integrity and a desire to improve the lives of others," said Superintendent Dr. Jeff Rose. "He has more than two decades of law enforcement experience, and most of that has been in our schools. Chief Sulborski is the ideal choice to lead our district's School Police Department.

With 14 years with the Fulton County Schools, Chief Sulborski has held a variety of leadership roles, including SWAT commander, departmental training officer, and most recently, captain for the North County Division. He has an extensive background in firearms and tactical training and has held the command position of the department's Tactical (SWAT) Team, where his efforts brought it from conception to full operational capability. He also is a former officer with the Roswell Police Department and holds a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering technology from what was formerly known as Southern Polytechnic State University, now a division of Kennesaw State University.

Chief Sulborski's vision for the Fulton County Schools Police Department is to contribute to the educational outcomes of students by establishing and sustaining ongoing positive relationships.

During his time outside of work, he enjoys spending time with his family, especially his energetic 8-year-old daughter, doing anything outdoors, and restoring his nearly 100-year-old farm home in Cherokee County. He is an active member of North Point Ministries at its Alpharetta campus in their Youth Ministry Programs.

Congratulations Chief Sulborski!
