

In an effort to provide local schools with an effective way of dealing with issues or problems unique to their own school, Fulton County School Board created Local School Advisory Councils (LSAC) for each of its public schools. Their purpose is to assist the local school in bringing about cooperation and coordination of resources to maximize educational opportunities for the students. Each LSAC studies issues, and then suggests recommendations or alternatives for these issues.

It is important that the LSAC keep the lines of communication open with our parent community. At Crabapple Crossing, the LSAC has already proven to be an effective means for dealing with issues, concerns, and ideas generated from staff, parents, and community. This Council meets on a monthly basis during the school year to review these issues.

Feel free to complete this form and return to your child's teacher or place in the LSAC boxes located throughout the building. If you prefer, you may contact any LSAC member personally. The names and email addresses are provided below.
