SIMULTANEOUS ORAL READING

Simultaneous Oral Reading supports students who lack fluency and confidence while reading.

1. Use the TIPS strategy to tune in with the child and introduce the book.
2. Explain that the two of you will try to read a section of the text with one voice.
3. Begin by reading a section of the text aloud, using good expression while the student follows along with a finger or pencil eraser. After reading the section, point out and explain any challenging vocabulary.
4. Read the same section aloud with the student, trying to read with one voice. Track the text with your finger, leading the child along.
5. Repeat the reading of the section together two or three times until the student is ready to read the section independently.
6. Have the student read the section aloud to you.
7. Summarize the section with the student.
