Emily Dickinson

19th Century American Poet
From Amherst, Massachusetts
Known as a recluse–someone who doesn’t like to leave home.
Normal childhood including community school.
At 15, she attended a women’s college for one year, but then did not return. She stayed with her family the rest of her life.
Rumored to have worn only white. Not quite true, but was not into fashion (which meant fancy, dyed fabrics) like other women in her time.
She was a secret poet. She wrote over 1700 poems that weren’t discovered (or published) until after her death.

Poem Examples: "A Narrow Fellow in the Grass" "I'm Nobody"

Her Work

Dickinson changed poetry! Since she was writing just for herself...
- She did not stick to conventions.
  Slant and eye rhymes were unusual then. She used them all the time.
  She used unusual spelling, capitalization, and punctuation, too.
- She didn’t name her poems.
  They were numbered after her death. People use their first lines as titles.
- Her poems featured:
  First-person POV
  Sense of humor
  Lots of nature
  Lots of questions about death and the afterlife
  Unusual metaphors, personification and zoomorphism (giving animal qualities to things that aren’t animals.)
- She almost always wrote in the same meter -
  Alternating 8 and 6 syllable lines, unstressed/ stressed pattern (iambic).
  Test her meter! You can sing most of her poems to "The Yellow Rose of Texas."
- She paved the way for unconventional poets in the next century like T.S. Eliot and e.e. cummings.
Gary Soto

Biography

- Born in Fresno, California
- Family Mexican-American
- Raised in a Spanish-speaking neighborhood
- He writes poems, novels, short stories and plays.
- The "spark" for many of his stories and poems comes from his real-life experiences.
- His writing transcends (rises above) ethnic boundaries and allegiances.

His Work

His writings depict a portrait of Mexican American life:

- He recreates the world of the barrio, the urban, Spanish-speaking neighborhood within the pages of his books.
- He focuses on everyday experiences while evoking (bringing to mind) the harsh forces that often shape life for Chicanos, including racism, poverty, and crime.

Born in 1952

Robert Frost

Biography

- One of the most acclaimed American poets.
- Born in California, but spent most of his life in New England. (Specifically, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts.)
- Aspired to be a poet as a teenager.
- Had lots of jobs (teacher, farmer, factory worker) but always wanted to write poetry (and only poetry).
- Won four Pulitzer Prizes, a Congressional Gold Medal, and he was nominated for the Nobel prize in Literature 31 times!
- Wrote and performed a poem for John F. Kennedy's inauguration.

1874 - 1963 (88 yrs old)

His Work

- He felt like writing a poem was "discovering." As he wrote them, he didn't know how his poems would end.
- Known for beautiful imagery.
- His poems feature nature, but also have deeper symbolism and feelings that appeal to people at a visceral level.
- An early admirer, Edward Garnett notes that Frost was able to "invest a simple scene with deep emotional power."
- He wrote a variety of lyric forms but did not like free verse.

Poems: "Nothing Gold Can Stay"  "The Road Not Taken"
