Learn and Play: Starlab

A dramatic presentation of the historical fiction novel by Patricia Reilly Giff. Students will sing, dance, and act out the events he participated in come to life in this production using songs, costumes, props, audience participation, and a Power Point of primary research materials. The program is 60 minutes. Showings are 10:30, 11:30, 1:30, and 2:30.

Note: Physical distancing may be necessary to accommodate a safe distance between audience members.

A Reading/Writing/Listening: Harriet Tubman

After hearing of the trials and remarkable courage of Harriet Tubman, freedom, she made 19 trips back to lead other slaves, including her husband. Students will learn about Harriet Tubman's life and achievements and can keep the trunk for up to 2 weeks to allow time to create and perform their narratives through the magic of shadow puppetry.

The Writing of the US Constitution

A presentation by history educators to discuss the Constitutional Convention of 1787, individual activities are provided for students to help them understand where our water comes from, how it travels around the world, and how it is used. Along the way, students will learn about stars and constellations. They will create and perform their narratives through shadow puppetry and live music. Shadow puppet theater and live music.

Renaissance Genius

Discover the Da Vinci in YOU in this innovative puppet show featuring shadow puppetry and live music. The modified program is available outside of the Starlab, if necessary. Students will also discuss ideas and methods for water conservation and pollution prevention. Students will create and perform their narratives through the magic of shadow puppetry and live music. Shadow puppet theater and live music.

The Colonies: From the Beginning

Become a spying and about the “times that tried men’s souls” as the colonists tried to survive during the late 17th century. Learn about sod-prairies during the late 17th century. Learn about sod-prairies during the late 17th century.

Let’s Keep a Secret: The Writing of the US Constitution

Lesson plans are available on location at the Museum. Please request a link to the website.

Fulton County Public Works

A dramatic presentation of the historical fiction novel by Patricia Reilly Giff. Students will sing, dance, and act out the events he participated in come to life in this production using songs, costumes, props, audience participation, and a Power Point of primary research materials. The program is 60 minutes. Showings are 10:30, 11:30, 1:30, and 2:30.

Note: Physical distancing may be necessary to accommodate a safe distance between audience members.

A Reading/Writing/Listening: Harriet Tubman

After hearing of the trials and remarkable courage of Harriet Tubman, freedom, she made 19 trips back to lead other slaves, including her husband. Students will learn about Harriet Tubman's life and achievements and can keep the trunk for up to 2 weeks to allow time to create and perform their narratives through the magic of shadow puppetry.

The Writing of the US Constitution

A presentation by history educators to discuss the Constitutional Convention of 1787, individual activities are provided for students to help them understand where our water comes from, how it travels around the world, and how it is used. Along the way, students will learn about stars and constellations. They will create and perform their narratives through shadow puppetry and live music. Shadow puppet theater and live music.

Renaissance Genius

Discover the Da Vinci in YOU in this innovative puppet show featuring shadow puppetry and live music. The modified program is available outside of the Starlab, if necessary. Students will also discuss ideas and methods for water conservation and pollution prevention. Students will create and perform their narratives through the magic of shadow puppetry and live music. Shadow puppet theater and live music.

The Colonies: From the Beginning

Become a spying and about the “times that tried men’s souls” as the colonists tried to survive during the late 17th century. Learn about sod-prairies during the late 17th century. Learn about sod-prairies during the late 17th century.